Field Insights™: Field level data, any time, any place!

There will never be a substitute for a hard day's work in the field. However, we just made it a little easier! Field Insights helps you manage your risk by staying informed on how your fields are being affected by the weather. Field Insights provides you access to field level data including growth models with growing degree days, soil moisture and temperature, precipitation, wind speeds, weather radar, and our newest features, the harvest and spray advisors.

Field Insights goes one step further to help with the accuracy and efficiency of processing. Field Insights will now allow sharing of acreage reporting data between you and your agent. This means that during planting season, if you are using Field Insights, any acreage data that is keyed into Field Insights will be available to prepopulate your acreage reports. In addition, after the planting season, we can push your acreage report data back out to Field Insights.

Sign up for Hail Notifications!

Our Hail Notifications are now available to you! This service sends out an email notification if the probability of hail exists on or by your fields. The email will contain your policy number, county and crops potentially affected, and will provide a link to your policy within EASYview Weather. This notification gives you the opportunity to review the notification, check on the potential damage, and contact your agent in the case of a loss. Enroll to receive these notifications today!
